

IMPROVED POLYMER EXPANSION FOR OIL AND GAS RECOVERY

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

[0036] Methods are provided for fracturing subterranean formations using fluids having substantially reduced polymer loadings that have performance equivalent to conventional fluids. Reduced polymer loadings provide significant advantages such as reduced treatment costs and less damage to the fracture sand pack and surrounding subterranean formations.